The ITCF USA is responsible for the organization and promotion of various international T20 cricket events (such as the World Cup& Jr. world Cup) as well as the development of the sport itself throughout the world.

Rules and regulation

The ITCF USA overlooks and maintains the Rules of T20 Cricket. Whilst the official rules as adopted by the ITCF USA are used at any international event, the various member bodies do not necessarily employ the internationally accepted rules within their own domestic competitions.

These events are contested by the members and associate members of the ITCF USA and have historically been held at varying intervals. In recent times, these events are held every two years.

Development

In order to ensure the viability and success of the sport on an international level, the ITCF USA has been active in promoting and developing the sport throughout the world. This process has resulted in the inclusion of several new countries at international events.
